Respected Mrs. Manisha Naik was the resource person for the session and kept the audience engaged by her easy-to-understand way of explanation and relevant examples. Her energy kept the session lively. She gave a logical explanation about the rational and emotional appeal. She also made us fill out a survey which turned out to be a good sample survey. She talked about various methods like offers, vouchers, trial periods, sample testing, etc for publicity and various ways of selling like door-to-door, online, stores, etc. She told us about how a relevant way of advertising should be chosen according to the product, and the target audience. Overall the session was very knowledgeable.

3.1 Executive Summary of the Event:

Entrepreneurship Development Cell Under the aegis of IQAC, in collaboration with AIESEC in South Mumbai, has organized an Online Two-Day National Level Entrepreneurial Workshop “ENNOVENT 2021” #Accept, Analyse & Adapt under the Sustainable Goal of Industry, Innovation & Infrastructure. This year, our focal point was using innovative ways for upscaling entrepreneurial ventures by adapting the new norms and learning various government schemes and policies to enhance the ventures. Intellectual Property Rights plays a crucial role in any business, which was the plan for our second day to make young entrepreneurs aware of the importance and need of IPR in entrepreneurial ventures. In total, 162 participants attended the workshop, including the faculty members

3.2 Comments by the chief guest or guest of honor

Mr. Sumedh Pandit highlighted various such schemes in the session which can be very effective for deserving startups. He explained how this pandemic gave some positive & negative effects and how it gave a boost and confidence for Entrepreneurs, especially young entrepreneurs to mark their existence in this fastest-growing economy. Sometimes due to less capitalization, one is afraid to inculcate their startup but there are several schemes started under the guidance of the government which help entrepreneurs to initiate their business. On the second day, Ms. Hasti Chandarana made participants aware of the crucial contribution of patents in any innovative sector and how patent plays an important role in any business because they can help safeguard your invention. It provides a right to an inventor (entrepreneurs) to exclude others from exploiting their ideas. And the concept was very well delivered.
